

Job Description: Consultant, HEOR

Greetings!

We welcome applications for the position of Consultant (Literature Reviews and Scientific Communications) with ConnectHEOR India.

Role:

- Serve as the lead to conduct rigorous literature reviews of clinical, humanistic, epidemiological and economic evidence
- Lead writer in market access and scientific communication projects such as medical writing, landscape assessments
- Development of evidence generation strategies and value messages
- Publish research-work at conferences and submission to scientific journals
- Support growth of the business through the development of strong client relationships
- Guide and mentor junior staff
- Work closely with internal team and external stakeholders to ensure high quality of deliverables
- Develop best practices guidelines for relevant areas
- Business development and budget management

Essential traits:

- Advanced degree (e.g. PhD, PharmD, MD, MPH, MSc, MA) in any relevant science such as public health, relevant science, such as Pharmacy, Medicine, Biomedical Sciences, Health Economics/ Economics, Health Policy, Epidemiology or Public Health
- 5+ years experience within the field of HTA and market access, with ample experience in hands-on conducting and leading systematic literature reviews
- Knowledge of various reference management softwares
- Excellent writing experience for manuscripts, reports and proposals
- Excellent presentation skills
- Experience of working in a team and leading a team
- Excellent time management, project management and communication skills
- Proactive approach to work, problem-solving aptitude and flexible to learn and adapt
- Knowledge of the pharmaceutical industry and drug development process

Desirable traits:

- Experience of writing market access documents such as Academy of Managed Care Pharmacy (AMCP) dossiers and global value dossiers (GVD)
- Business development and marketing experience
- Experience of conducting meta analysis and network-meta analyses
- Statistical programming skills with standard software (SAS, R and STATA)
- Track record of research publications in conferences and peer-reviewed journals

- Understanding the market access environment and challenges globally
- Primary research or conducting workshop with key opinion leaders (KOLs)
- Understanding of economic evaluation techniques and basic health economic modeling knowledge
- Understanding of real-world evidence generation studies

Offering:

We offer a competitive salary and benefits package, with clear opportunities for growth and career progression. The candidate will get to work on a variety of projects with some of the industry's top experts, as well as publish and present at prestigious scientific conferences and journals. As we also conduct premium training within the healthcare field - the candidate will have access to the training to expedite their journey to become industry expert. We are committed to providing training and professional development, with ample opportunity to advance, for all our staff.

Our team culture boasts a fun and collaborative working environment and a robust support/mentoring system. The core values of our company are important to us and are built on trust, mutual respect, coordination, diversity and good work ethics.

Location:

India based - Work from home/ Remote.

Why ConnectHEOR:

ConnectHEOR is a HEOR consultancy and training organization. We are in the mission to revolutionize healthcare by data and research and together with our stakeholders expedite the timely access of effective healthcare to patients.

We hire and connect with some of the brightest minds in their fields to provide technical rigor and creative solutions to complex problems in HEOR. We aim to provide an environment for our employees to unlock their potential and to help them become leaders in the field.

Learn more about us here: www.connectheor.com

Next step:

Interested candidates can apply with their CVs to kunal.hriday@connectheor.com with subject: 'Consultant, HEOR, Job Application: <Insert Your name>'.